GRACE AND PEACE TO YOU, MY BROTHERS AND SISTERS,

The readings for this weekend offer a profoundly unified message: authentic discipleship is never passive. It is a way of life that shines outward, transforming the world through concrete acts of mercy and justice. Jesus' call to be "salt of the earth" and "light of the world" is not a poetic suggestion but a mission. And this mission is grounded in the prophetic command from Isaiah to serve the poor, lift up the oppressed, and care for those in need. These texts reveal that holiness is visible, made real through actions that reflect God's mercy.

Isaiah speaks to a people who assumed their religious practices alone were pleasing to God. Yet the prophet boldly declares that worship without justice is empty. God desires a heart that cares for the hungry, shelters the homeless, and stands with those who suffer. When this happens, Isaiah promises, "your light shall break forth like the dawn." In other words, compassion makes God's presence visible in a fractured world. Light is not merely something we receive from God; it is something we radiate through love made tangible in our actions.

Jesus extends this same vision in the Gospel. Calling his disciples "salt" and "light," he invites them to embrace their identity as people meant to influence, preserve, and illuminate. Salt preserves what is good and adds flavor to what is bland; likewise, a disciple brings God's love into places that have grown dull or lifeless. Light scatters darkness, revealing truth and giving hope; so too the Christian life must expose injustice, comfort the suffering, and testify to Christ's saving presence.

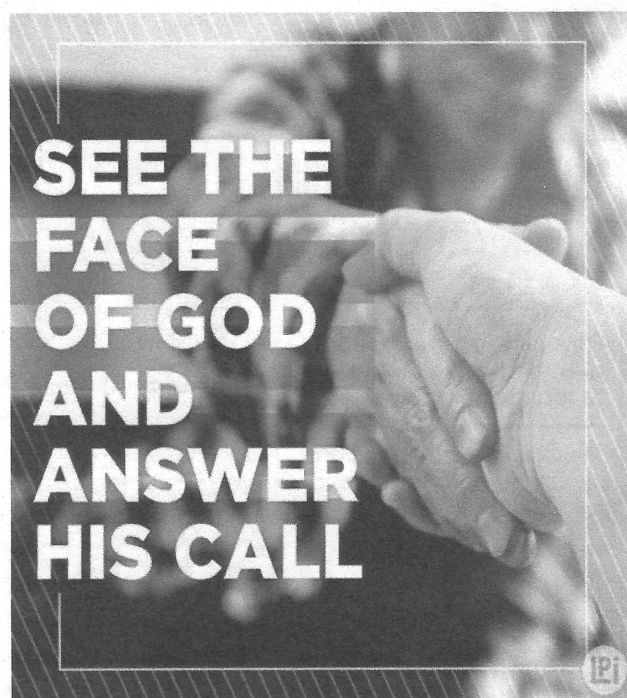

Both images, salt and light, imply purpose and intentionality. Salt that never touches food and light hidden under a basket fail in their missions. For disciples, faith that remains private or inactive loses its power. Jesus' words challenge us to step out of meditation and into action. Our faith must be visible, not for our glory, but "so that they may see your good deeds and glorify your heavenly Father."

This call to intentional discipleship demands daily choices. It requires seeing the face of Christ in those who struggle: the neighbor battling loneliness, the family burdened by poverty, the person longing for forgiveness or dignity. It invites us to speak truth when silence would be easier, to act when apathy tempts us to withdraw. When we do these things, we do more than follow commandments; we become living signs of God's Kingdom breaking into the world.

The readings this Sunday remind us that faith is not a hidden treasure but a shared gift. Our world hungers for the flavor of compassion and thirsts for the light of hope. To be an intentional disciple, then, is to allow our lives to bear witness to God's love in concrete, sacrificial, and joyful ways. When we live this way, the promise of Isaiah becomes real: the light of Christ shines through us, and the world is changed. Are we ready to be the salt of the earth and the light of the world? Think about concrete steps that you can take to illuminate your life with the light of Christ.

Blessings,

Fr. Juan M. Camacho

Then your light shall break forth like the dawn, and your wound shall quickly be healed. (Is 58:8)

Psalm:

The just man is a light in darkness to the upright. (Ps 112)
Or Alleluia.

Second Reading:

When I came to you, brothers and sisters,
proclaiming the mystery of God,
I did not come with sublimity of words or of wisdom.
For I resolved to know nothing while I was with you except Jesus Christ, and him crucified. (1 Cor 2:1-2)

Gospel:

"You are the light of the world.
A city set on a mountain cannot be hidden.
Nor do they light a lamp and then put it under a bushel

Virtues, Explained!

In baptism, the Holy Spirit gives us the sanctifying grace of justification — the ability to grow in goodness through an increase in moral virtue (CCC 1266).
Baptism, therefore, disposes us toward goodness.

Blessing of Mission

Bless us on our way, O Lord.
Share with us as we share with others.
Heal us as we help others to heal.
Provide for us as we open our hands in charity.
Every gift comes from You.
You are at the heart of all that is good.
Share that goodness with us today, abundantly.
Amen.
